Construction Crews on M. H. And E Are Re-inforced--Distance To Louisville Shortened And a Good System Inaugurated.

The Madisonville Hustler, of recent date has the following to say of the new railroad:

The new railroad from Madisonville to Fordsville will soon be completed and the management expects to have it open by January 1. The construction crew has been re-inforced in the past few days, a big crowd of workmen having been taken to Hartford from Louisville, says the Louisville times.

With the completion of the new railroad valuable coal timber land will be opened up in Hopkins, Madison and Ohio counties. Eastern parties have already bought large tracts of land lying near the railroad, and several coal mines are already being developed.

The Madisonville, Hartford and Eastern railroad is the name of the new road. It traverses a territory not now touched by a railroad, and gives Hartford, the county seat of Ohio county, a railroad outlet, something that the citizens of that town have been striving for for more than thirty years. The new road also shortens the distance from Madisonville and way points to Louisville more than forty miles, and will bring Louisville as close to that territory as Nashville.

At Fordsville the new road will connect with a branch of the Henderson Route. Only a short distance removed is the main line, and connection will be made with the Henderson Route to Louisville traffic.—Hartford Herald.

TAFT AS A SPEAKER.

His Talks to the People Winning Many Votes.

DOESN'T POSE AS AN ORATOR.

Word Pictures Not Needed to State Facts Plainly—Republican Candidates' Cleanliness and Sincerity Carry Conviction.

From being decidedly apprehensive as to the outcome of Judge Taft's speaking tour, Republican leaders are now convinced that one of the wisest moves of the campaign was the decision to have the Republican candidate visit as many sections of the country as possible between now and election day and talk to as many voters as the time will permit. When speaking tours for Taft were first discussed the opponents of the plan based their opposition on the fact that the only "Taft" cannot be compared to Bryan. They argued that Taft, who makes no pretense to oratory, would be placed at a disadvantage appearing on the stump against the gifted Nebraskan. But Judge Taft himself solved the problem and cleared the whole situation with one sentence in his recent speech at St. Louis: "O-

"I cannot dwell in the cerulean blue, but have to deal with facts," he declared. "It is dealing with facts in a clear, dispassionate manner that has made William Howard Taft what he is, that will cause him to succeed every time he appears in public. Taft's best friends cannot claim for him that he is an orator. But he can tell the truth and does tell it. He will not have to paint beautiful word pictures of what should be done. He will not have to plead with silvery eloquence for the alleged 'right' to call the 'other man's' to rise up and as the country from the ruin which Bryan has been predicting and finding various panaceas for during the past twelve years.

What Taft has to do is to state cold, clear facts, to tell the truth about himself, to give his auditors a clear and unmistakable idea of what Taft the man is and what he stands for. And this he can do, and do well. By nature he is frank and open. It would be difficult for him to dissemble if he tried to do so. Already he has begun making serious impressions on his audiences. Bryan never fails to tickle his audiences, to arouse enthusiasm which rarely lasts. Those who listen and applaud go away and forget. With the Taft audiences it is different. By the time of the first speech and the absolute sincerity of his manner he carries conviction. His auditors are soon impressed by two things—Taft's ability and Taft's sincerity.

"That man means what he says," is a common refrain heard after every speech. Another Taft characteristic that is winning many friends for the Republican candidate among those who knew nothing of him before they saw and heard him is his great courage. He says what he thinks, and says it in such a way that it makes the mind of those who hear him. At Athens, O., he was addressing 400 union coal miners. He told them about having issued injunctions. "I issued them," he said, "because the men meant what they said." A crowd of miners burst out laughing. Another Taft characteristic that is winning many friends for the Republican candidate among those who knew nothing of him before they saw and heard him is his great courage. He says what he thinks, and says it in such a way that it makes the mind of those who hear him.

"That man is on the level," said one. "He doesn't hold out any 'cos' talk. He knows where he stands and is not afraid to come straight out with a thing. He isn't the orator Bryan is, but he says things that Bryan wouldn't dare say."

For a minute there was absolute silence, dramatic in its intensity. Then the 400 miners broke not merely into applause, but into enthusiastic cheering. After the meeting they were heard exclaiming: "Good God!"

"That man is on the level," said one. "He doesn't hold out any 'cos' talk. He knows where he stands and is not afraid to come straight out with a thing. He isn't the orator Bryan is, but he says things that Bryan wouldn't dare say."

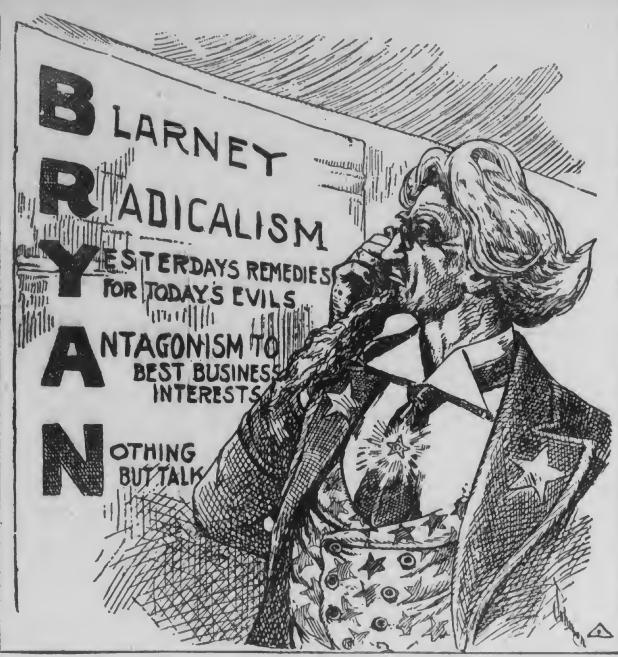

There are many of Bryan's utterances, Taft's utterances will bear inspection. He will make no declaration that is open to doubt. "I have to deal with facts," he said. In some of his speeches Bryan, intoxicated with the sound of his own words, would make statements so bold and so patently untrue. Taft has been long on the bench, too long in high government positions, where his utterances carried weight, to permit of his making careless statements. Furthermore, Taft possess to a marked degree the ability to do his best work in simple language. He proved this most conclusively at Sandusky when he made perfectly plain to his audience the development of anti-trust legislation and the powers and limitations of the federal government. Everything he said was clear, was intelligible, yet there were few in the audience who realized that he was discussing abstract legal problems without resorting to bewildering legal phraseology.

As far as personal magnetism goes, Taft and Bryan are nearly equal. But Taft's personal magnetism creates interest and enthusiasm. Taft's is one that inspires affection and trustfulness. "That man has a fine face; I would trust him anywhere," said a West Virginia woman who with a large party came to the meeting to hear Taft. "The speech at St. Louis? Those who meet him feel that he is not only sincere, but that he possesses the ability and courage to handle safely the many problems that confront a president. It is the knowledge of all this that makes the Taft managers glad that he is to go out and meet the people."

Mr. Gompers betrays distinct signs of irritation because nobody thinks him worth while to get out an injunction against his speaking his mind to the fullest extent. He will awaken in North Carolina the fact that there is a great gulf between his party and those who are working there with him in the strictly economic purposes of labor unions.

The Bryan proposition that conservative banks should pay for the failure of speculative banks will not appeal to the thrifty depositor.

THE BRYAN PARROT.

The Same Feathered Nuisance That Screeched in 1896.

In 1896, as in 1900 and 1908, the dominant voice in the Bryan campaign is the same—just as obstinate and just as meaningless as it was then. Bryan's best friends cannot claim for him that he is an orator. But he can tell the truth and does tell it. He will not have to paint beautiful word pictures of what should be done. He will not have to plead with silvery eloquence for the alleged "right" to call the "other man's" to rise up and as the country from the ruin which Bryan has been predicting and finding various panaceas for during the past twelve years.

BRYAN COULD HARM.

Danger of Placing Nebraskan in White House.

EVEN WITH SENATE OPPOSED.

Administration and Enforcement of Laws Would Be in His Hands—This Treasury Would Be Under His Thumb—National Banks Would Be at His Mercy.

Nothing with brains enough to get in out of a blizzard can have patience with the argument so complacently put forth by some of the Bryanites who want to humbug others into believing what they don't believe themselves—that Bryan can do no harm should he be elected. The usual way of putting it is that there will be a Republican Senate and probably a Republican house and that Bryan's hands will be tied even if his tongue continued to wag—certainly a poor reason for electing a president even it true.

But it is not true. A grammar school boy who has studied the constitution and the laws knows that it is not. Of course Bryan as president in face of one congress could not pass laws. But the whole administration of national laws, including their enforcement, which is at least as important as passing them, would be in his hands. He would have the treasury under his thumb; the national banks would be at the mercy of a comptroller of the currency appointed by him; the foreign policy of the government would be directed by him, and ambassadors, ministers and consuls would be named by him. The army and navy would be under his control. Civil service, post masters and other officials of the civil service would be nominated by him. While he could not establish "Jim Crow" rule, he could make things much smoother and easier for the class that came back from European trips loaded with all sorts of luxuries purchased abroad to the detriment of American labor.

The voice of the Bryan parrot is unchanged. It is as rasping, monotonous and as lacking in the note of sincerity as it was twelve years ago. The senseless shriek of "Free silver" could not be repeated in 1908. The same old scream of "Imperialism" never disturbed their compunction for a single moment in 1900. And the shrill, insidious shriek, "Shall the people rule?" fits the parrot's voice to perfection, and, though it is as empty as an uprolling of his eyes that might scare people if they could forget it for a moment, it is only a parrot's shriek after all.

And the shrill, insidious shriek, "Shall the people rule?" fits the parrot's voice to perfection, and, though it is as empty as an uprolling of his eyes that might scare people if they could forget it for a moment, it is only a parrot's shriek after all.

Parrot politics will not do this year. Serious questions are before the people for discussion and settlement. Public attention cannot be drawn away from them either by the wistful chatter of parrots or the theatrical tricks of demagogues. This is no work for a parrot year than was 1900 or 1904.

Mr. Gompers betrays distinct signs of irritation because nobody thinks him worth while to get out an injunction against his speaking his mind to the fullest extent. He will awaken in North Carolina the fact that there is a great gulf between his party and those who are working there with him in the strictly economic purposes of labor unions.

The Bryan proposition that conservative banks should pay for the failure of speculative banks will not appeal to the thrifty depositor.

DEMOCRAT ADVOCATES NEGRO DISFRANCHISEMENT.

National Committeeman Atwood, Bryan's Close Friend, Openly Favors Taking Vote From Colored Men of Kansas.

Disfranchisement of as many colored voters as possible is advocated by John H. Atwood, Democratic national committeeman from Kansas, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Democratic national committee, one of Bryan's closest friends and a man who, it is said, Mr. Bryan intends to make attorney general if he should be elected president.

Disfranchisement of the colored men of Kansas was advocated by Mr. Atwood in the following letter published in the Kansas City Post of Kansas City, Kan., May 7, 1908:

Letter Urging Disfranchisement.

"By one of those strange forces which sometimes overtake the political world, the colored men of the state of Kansas, which has done more perhaps for the negro than any other state in the Union, is now suffering a grievous political wrong from the hands of the freedmen and his descendants.

"Why, you say, would not the ignorant negro vote if he had not been for the ignorant negro vote, and there have been times in the past when the Democratic party could have elected its state ticket had it not been for the ignorant black vote of Kansas City, Kansas, Lawrence, Atchison, Lawrence and Topeka.

"There was a time when the negro vote was not a considerable factor in Kansas politics, but that time has passed. The influx of negroes from the south, the rapid multiplication of those native Kansas soil and the increasing insistence of the negro upon social equality make the Kansas negro not only a political factor, but a social and political menace.

Atwood favors "Jim Crow" Schools. "If the last election be a criterion, the negro now holds the balance of political power in Kansas, as he does in Missouri. This in itself is had enough, but the negroes have suffered for long years the outrage of mixed schools, fastened upon us by the Republican politicians.

"Mixed schools lead the negroes to aspire to a mixed society, and this close contact of the races is productive of political strife. The negro would be free if the negro had less political power and were not admitted to the same schools with the whites.

"There has long been weary of the negro politicians, and it is more than weary of the mixed school. Patience has its limits, and I believe that when the negroes have had enough, Kansas will join with the people of Missouri in restricting negro suffrage.

"I do not advocate the disfranchisement of the negro on the ground of his color. That idea is abhorrent to me. I advocate free government, and the execution would be in conflict with the constitution.

"But our constitution will permit the disfranchisement of the ignorant, depraved, lazy, vicious and debauched negro, and this disfranchisement should be accomplished to the end that our free institutions may not suffer."

AMERICAN GOODS ABROAD.

Statement of Lawton Like an Accusation From the Grave.

Among the many gallant American soldiers whose lives were sacrificed in the difficult task of suppressing the Filipino insurrection none was more beloved either by his brother officers or the men in the ranks than General Henry W. Lawton. He realized the ideal American soldier as completely as any of his contemporaries, and his record in the war for the Union, in fighting the Spanish war and in trying work which called him to the Philippines constitutes a lustreous chapter in the annals of American valor. No braver officer ever wore his country's uniform. No gentler officer ever conducted his men to victory. No officer ever fought with more dash and dash. No chivalric leader ever gave up his life in defense of his country's flag.

General Lawton was killed in battle with insurgents in the island of Luzon in 1899 while fighting at the head of his men. He died in the tragic close of his career, but will write a friend to his wife and will write a letter in which he said:

"I am shot by a Filipino but I might come from one of my own men, because I know from observation, caused by captured prisoners, that the continuance of fighting is chiefly due to reports that are sent out from America."

The words of Lawton, fighting a treacherous foe in a tropical country, were as much a protest against the unpatriotic "anti-imperialist" agitators here in the United States, who, as he said, were sympathetic for the insurgents. His action gave constituent aid and comfort to the enemy. Army officers of high character and rugged experience in the Philippines have frequently expressed the opinion that the insurrection would not have lasted ninety days had it not been for the support, moral and otherwise, which its leaders received from their sympathizers in America.

Chief among those sympathizers, the insistent and most reckless of all, was William Jennings Bryan, and against him Lawton stands like an accusation from the grave. For his unpatriotic course during the Filipino insurrection Mr. Bryan lacked even the shadow of an excuse. He had entered the military service during the Spanish war at a very early age, and it is known to all that he was a soldier and the insurance agent in the McKinley administration and it was incorporated in the Wilson-Gorman law by the Democrats. It was kept in the law when the Dingley act was passed because it became the policy of the government by common consent of both parties.

Last year we imported $10,000,000 worth of materials which went into manufactures for export, and the drawback was paid on about 5 per cent of our imports. This would make it possible for the American manufacturers to sell their products at 10 per cent or $1,000,000 worth, cheaper abroad than at home. The advantage given by the drawback was given for the purpose of enabling them to go into foreign markets and compete, even if they had to sell cheaper than at home. And this advantage was given in the Dingley act of 1890, and it was given in the McKinley act of 1890 and it is given now by the Dingley act of 1897.

It is therefore not a partisan question, because it has had recognition from both the public parties. It is a question of policy to compete in foreign markets rather than protection for the home market. Its definite purpose is to enable manufacturers in this country to give employment to American labor for the production of American goods in the European market instead of leaving that manufacture to European producers employing European labor.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1908.

We have a splendid grand jury this term. They ought to be able to do some good work.

In 1896 the cry was farm products were too low, the cry now is they are too high. If you want them lower vote for Bryan.

Do farmers remember ten or twelve years ago when they had to sell oats at 15 or 20 cents a bushel, corn at 25 cents, live hogs at 2 cents, sheep at most any price, in fact most all farm products were so low that it drove most every farmer out of the business. What was the cause, the tariff, the Wilson-Gorman tariff. A vote for Bryan will give the farmer some more of these low prices.

Dr. Gaddie was here Monday night and spoke to a small crowd at Oelze's Hall. He made a fine impression and highly pleased his friends and supporters. He is a nice clean man, looks good and if elected the district will have a worthy successor to Col. Ben Johnson. But Col. Johnson is still our ideal of a representative and a man. He has been tried. We know what he has done, the people know it and will vote for him and elect him.

Welcome Farmers.

Today we are happy to welcome to our city the farmers of Breckenridge, who will hold their Annual Institute of two days session at the City Hall. They are the "salt of the earth" and it is with great pleasure we entertain them in our homes. We sincerely trust their meeting will be a profitable one and their visit to Cloverport will be most enjoyable. May they go back to the plow with inspired hearts and eager hands, feeling that it was good to be here.

Col. Mose Witmore head of the Bryan finance committee is not in a good humor. The boys are not turning in the dough like he thinks they should. He says when Bryan is elected and is in the White House he is going to plant two ganting guns on the White House lawn, and the fellows who can't show his receipt for the stuff won't get within a hundred miles of the gate. So you fellows who want post offices under Mr. Bryan had better get one of his receipts or you will feel the effects of one of his gantlings.

Geo. B. Cox, the Republican boss of Cincinnati and Hamilton County, predicts that Judge Taft will carry Ohio by 125,000. Cox it is said is one of the shrewdest political observers in the country, and when he gives an estimate it is considered pretty reliable. He says New York is safe for Taft, but Hughes will be defeated unless the majority of the national ticket is so big that it carries him through. As Cox sees the situation, Indiana is absolutely safe for the Republicans now. He says the calling of the extra session of the legislature and the passing of the local option bill, has taken the temperance question out of the field and has left the State certain for the Republicans. He says the calling of that extra session by Hanly is the best thing that has been done in the campaign, a stroke of political genius, and will save the State of Indiana for the party.

When Bryan Had A Chance.

Mr. Bryan was in the House of Representatives for four years and was a prominent member of its most important committee, the Ways and Means. The President and Congress were both Democratic. It was Bryan's opportunity. What does the record show that he ever did? This was a time when he held office in Washington next door to the White House, when he was a part of one of the coordinate branches of the Government and when if he had employed himself with the same zeal he is now displaying in his own behalf he might have induced his Democratic associates to take up some of his theories and see what they were worth. Was he afraid or were they afraid to do so? Mr. Bryan failed to act when he had the chance. If he can do nothing as a member of Congress, not even talk in favor of his ideas, what could he do in the White House?

When he was in Congress the Administration was Democratic and Mr. Bryan had a clear field. President Cleveland was so dissatisfied with the tariff bill that Bryan and his associates on the Ways and Means Committee insisted on passing that he declared it "a perfidy and a dishonor," and refused to sign it. It became a law without his signature. We all know what happened when Bryan's tariff bill better known as the Gorman-Wilson measure, went into effect. The recent panic is nothing compared with that which occurred as soon as the Bryan tariff was assured. In the language of Judge Taft "the passage of the bill prostrated all industries and brought about four years memorable in the history of the country as the worst financial disaster it has ever seen." For this depression what was Mr. Bryan's remedy? Free silver, the very thought of which intensified the depression! Is such a man to be trusted with the destiny of the American republic? — Leslie's Weekly.

A CHARMING YOUNG MOTHER SAYS:

MRS. E. W. BROOKS.

EDGE

Weak, Exhausted, Pe-ru-na Gave New Life.

Mrs. E. W. Brooks, 515 S. Steele St., South Tacoma, Wash., writes: "I want to recommend Peruna to mothers. When my little girl came, I felt very weak and exhausted, and it seemed that I could not regain my strength."

"My mother bought me a bottle of Peruna, after I had tried several other much advertised remedies without relief. I had little faith, as I was very weak, but within a week after I had commenced taking Peruna I was like a different woman."

"New life and vitality seemed to come each day until in a few weeks I was in fine health and a happy woman. Thanks to your splendid medicine, I have enjoyed good health for several years. I always keep Peruna on hand, as a few doses will set me right when I am feeling badly."

Catarrh of Ears.

Mrs. G. W. Heard, Hempstead, Texas, writes in regard to her son Carl: "My son's ears had been affected since he was a baby. He seemed to have risings in his ears, and when he was a year old, several days, then his ears would run profusely what appeared to be corruption."

"The last year I thought he had almost lost his hearing and had a local physician treating him for about six weeks. People Who Object to Liquid Medicines Should Buy Peruna Tablets

Such artistic tableaux must take a lot of Americans more and more embarrassed and ashamed whenever anyone is tactless enough to mention the utterly deplorable events which took their start on July 4, 1776.—Chicago Evening Post.

The people of this place will be pleased to learn that we at last have dredged up the fact that science has been able to cure all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure, now known to man, for this disease. Catarrh is a constitutional disease, and is a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thus removing the primary cause of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much confidence in this medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Mrs. J. H. Willis was the guest of honor at a dinner given to a most interesting company of friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Stites in Louisville Thursday. Among the guests were Capt. Fritz, of Chicago, and Capt. Ford, of Cleveland, Ohio, who are in Louisville in the interest of Salvation Army work. Mrs. Stites has for a number of years been interested in the Salvation Army movements, and well do many Cloverport people remember her delightful friend, Ensign Allcott, who visited here.

Capt. Ford is doing wonderful good for Christianity in the larger cities, and in doing it, he is filling up the gaps he made to God twenty-one years ago. Capt. Ford was a whisky parrot and a sot and keeper. He said that one night a tiny little member of the Salvation Army came in his saloon and fell down upon her knees and prayed earnestly for his conversion. He laughed at her sarcasm and threw a glass of beer on her head. Then she arose and walked gently toward the door. As she started out, she turned to him, with the beer dripping over her beautiful, Christian face and uttered softly, "May God bless you, he can save you." The last words rang continually in his ears for days until a desire was created in the very depths of his heart that he might become a different man. It was not long until he closed his saloon and he promised God, if he would make him well he would give him life to Christian work. Besides devoting his time to the Salvation Army, Capt. and Mrs. Ford have reared seven orphans and established them in business.

Capt. Fritz is an ambitious young man. He is brave. He is strong and hopes to do great things for Christianity through the Salvation Army.

VALUE OF RAW APPLES.

If You Want to Live Long Eat Plenty of This Fruit.

Many persons eat raw apples are indigestible and only indigestible to the early morning. Doubtless the old adage that fruit is gold in the morning, silver in the middle of the day, and lead at night is to some extent answerable for this erroneous impression.

Drinking a glass of milk, apples contain more phosphorus in proportion to their bulk than any other article of food, fish not excepted. A recent writer on this point boldly declares that in this lies the secret of healthful longevity. They correct indigestion and act as a sedative upon the racked nerves and the insomniac.

"Eat uncooked apples constantly, although, of course, in moderation, and drink distilled water only and years will be added to your life, while the evidences of age will be long in coming."

This argument is based on the supposition that as age advances the deposits of mineral matter in the system increase and that aging is little more than a gradual process of calcification.

Phosphorus is said to be the chief amount of earth stains and for that reason is probably the nearest approach to the elixir of life known to the scientist world.

If you want to live long, retain your youth at the same time and to increase your health eat plenty of apples, drink only distilled water and eat as little bread as possible.

Tart apples are far more wholesome than sweet, and all, like potatoes, should be fully ripe when eaten.

and is just the thing for a walking skirt, giving, as it does, the much desired more at the bottom without necessitating the use of plates. The upper part of the skirt is circular, pure and simple, and the only deviations from the rule are the crosswise lines running across the bottom and the graduated panel buttoning down both the skirt.

Weak Heart Action

There are certain nerves that control the action of the heart. When they become weak, the heart action is impaired. Short breath, pain around heart, choking sensation, palpitation, fluttering, feeble or rapid pulse, and other distressing symptoms follow. Dr. Miles Heart Cure is a medicine especially adapted to the needs of these nerves and the muscular structure of the heart itself. It is a strengthening tonic that brings speedy relief. Try it.

"For years I suffered with what I thought was stomach trouble, when the doctor told me it was heart trouble. I had tried many remedies, when the Miles Heart Cure came into my hands, and I came to Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I have taken this medicine ever since, and nothing else. I am a strong man now, and the hope is that it will attract the attention of others who suffer."

Bad Backache

Such aches as some women suffer, every month, from backache!

Is it necessary? No. It can be prevented and relieved, when caused by female trouble, by taking a medicine with specific, curative action, on the female organs and functions, which acts by relieving the congestion, stopping the pain and building the organs and functions up to a proper state of health. WINE OF CARDUI WOMAN'S RELIEF

"I suffered for 15 years," writes Mrs. Matilda A. Akers, of Beaufort, Va., "with various female troubles. I had such a backache that it drove me crazy. I could not stand straight. The doctor could not help me, so I took Cardui, and now I am a new woman."

A PHOTOGRAPHIC HINT.

Interesting Home-made Christmas and Birth-day Photo Cards.

There are few scenes that do not contain some curios or objects of marked interest, not necessarily valuable, that are treasured for association by the different members of the family. Now, if these objects are nicely photographed and converted into cards, they would be very appropriate and interesting to the various scattered members of the family than the usual "pretty-pretty" greeting cards, of which we are all getting a little weary.

The amateur photographer may find these tips a little help to "take" the following advice from an expert interior photographer may be helpful:

The first need is a table or stand for the object. Most ordinary tables are too low and also troublesome to move and are not suitable for rooms. After various experiments I have arrived at a very simple and practical arrangement, which any one can make at a trifling cost and trouble:

In one of the illustrations you have seen a general view of my studio and see an ordinary room. A door can act as a background. By oversight rather than design a part of an old grandfather's clock is included, but it may serve to give some rough idea of the size of the stand. From the grocer I obtained a box without a lid, and a piece of wood, not less than three inches in size and six inches deep. Three broomsticks were bought all cut to exactly the same length, three feet five inches long. Inside the two front corners of the box (open side downwards) are fixed two of the broomsticks, one in each corner, and the other is fixed to the inside of the middle of the opposite long edge of the box. Nails may be used, but screws are stronger and safer. Lastly, I bought three window blind laths. These are about an inch wide and one-quarter inch thick. Two of them are cut to two feet nine inches in length. The third may conveniently be cut to three feet. The two laths are used as background supports and are fixed to the outside of the table top near the right and left hand ends. The third is fixed to the middle of one end of the box. For the stand, I took a short, stout screw for each. This enables you to turn these three parts of the apparatus downward when the table is not in use. It may then be stowed in any out of the way corner, a cover thrown over it and be made useful again.

In the other illustration you see the apparatus in use. A sheet of rough brown paper is attached to the background laths, using drawing pins. This paper is also large enough to cover the table top as well as to serve as a backdrop. The object chosen is a boy in a "sheep" figure. To the right and opposite the camera is a sheet of white card, which leans against the shorter of the three laths.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and give one sandwich liver and bowals the help they will need. Regulists bring easy, regular passages of the bowals.

At the "aftermath" is a very interesting "mash" that is the first mowing of the meadow. The short grass with a sufficiency of rain will grow again, and later will come the "second mow," or "after-mow." The phrase "the storm and the after-mow" seems a favorite with some story writers, but it is difficult to understand how a storm can have a second mowing.
